

In Tlilli, In Tlapalli

Live site: <https://mstevensonart.github.io/florentine-codex-borgia-codicology/>

A codicological survey of the Codex Borgia and the Florentine Codex — paper, watermarks, tools, hands, and corrections — tracing artisanal continuity from a pre-Conquest screenfold to a colonial encyclopedic manuscript.

Developed from: Stevenson, Michael. M.A. thesis, Arizona State University, 2002 (chair: Emily Umberger). See also: Stevenson, Michael. "The Black and the Red: A Physical Description of the Codex Borgia," Phoebus: A Journal of Art History 11 (2022): 59–78.

Data

- data/watermarks-florentine-codex/codicology_vol1.json — 362 entries (Florentine Codex Vol. I)
- data/watermarks-florentine-codex/codicology_vol2.json — 381 entries (Vol. II)
- data/watermarks-florentine-codex/codicology_vol3.json — 501 entries (Vol. III)
- data/florentine/folio_notes.json — 101 entries
- technical_merged.json — 139 entries (80 Florentine, 59 Borgia): execution-level technical evidence (stroke direction, tool behavior, pentimenti, corrections) across both manuscripts
- codicology_borgia.json — 76-panel codicological census for the Codex Borgia (support, condition, grid system, production and revision evidence — the deerskin-manuscript equivalent of the Florentine watermark census)

See KNOWN_GAPS.md for documented limitations, uncertain readings, and flagged items across the dataset.

Full deposit (Zenodo)

The GitHub repository holds code and structured data. Full-resolution scans and PDFs — the reconstructed thesis, field notebook photographs, and the published festschrift essay — are archived on Zenodo: <https://doi.org/10.5281/zenodo.21609725>

Manuscripts

- Codex Borgia (Borgiana Messicana 1), Biblioteca Apostolica Vaticana
- Florentine Codex (Codice Fiorentino, Medici Palatino 218–220), Biblioteca Mediceana Laurenziana, Florence

How to cite

Stevenson, Michael. In Tlilli, In Tlapalli: A Codicological Survey of the Codex Borgia and the Florentine Codex. Dataset and essay. Zenodo, 2026.
<https://doi.org/10.5281/zenodo.21609725>.

See `CITATION.cff` for structured citation metadata.

License

Code and data in this repository are licensed under CC BY 4.0 — see LICENSE. The festschrift essay (Stevenson_2022_Black_and_Red_Phoebus11.pdf, archived on Zenodo) remains under its original Phoebus/Arizona State University copyright and is not covered by the CC BY 4.0 license applied to the rest of this deposit.